

02 Duty comes first.

Money making serves as basic principle of man's life. But it cannot be replaced by other more important things. Like, for a health enthusiast dinner serves as an important part but it is not the only thing his priorities revolves around. Similarly, in other professions there are various priorities more important than just making money. Like, doctors, soldiers and clergyman's priorities their service more than the money they are earning through it.

03 Thus, money is an important part of human survival, yet it comes second.
