

History is full of such successful people who start their journey in a very difficult situation but later on, they become most successful and famous.

If your forefathers have wealth than it can be spoon-fed.

But honour, respect and fame cannot be earned easily. Often men spend decades to earn respect that can be vanished in a moment.