Title :

Qualities Of a Rightly Trained Men:

It is practically impossible for a rightly trained men to choose money over his duty. All healthy minded people like making money, but for them ; they enjoy the sensation of winning it, as the feeling of winning it is better than ^{making} money. Likewise, a good soldier's main mission is to win battles, not to be paid for them; the clergymen's to baptize and preach, not be paid for preaching; and for doctors' to cure the sick patient over their fee. So for rightly trained men, duty comes first than money.
