

True Inspiration of Proficiency: Beyond Pay

Individual of a strong moral values prefers the proficiency of his work over the money which should not be the only purpose of the man's life. People who work for betterment of the others and paying their best, do not pay attention to the reward in the form of money. And people who work for the money do not perform good. One should focus on his work not on the reward. If reward is important it should come second.

- Total words = 276

Precis words = 79