Title: Intellectual people always give first priority to work.

It is not possible for an intelligent and lionhearted person to make money his prior thought. As healthy people like their dinners but not make it main aim of their lives. In a same manner, all healthy minded people like making money but not make it prior to all things. Just as a soldier is happy for his pay but give more value to winning battles. Similarly, clergyman give more importance to his preach and not be paid for preaching. In a same manner, doctors with well-education and kind behavior prefer to treat a sick-patient rather than kill him and get his fee. And so, all other disciplined persons give priority to their work over money despite it is important to them but always second.
