A well-educated, intellectual or brave man ~~also~~ wants to make money, just the way every ordinary man wants to. However, making money is a secondary objective for him. His primary objective is to be victorious at his work. Just as the ~~person~~ purpose of a good soldier is to fight well, a clergy is to preach well & a good doctor is to be in good books. They all less care about money & the purpose is to win at life. So for a rightly trained man, his devotion for work is high & the temptation for making money is less.
