

Précis:

Prioritizing Work over Money

It is not possible for a knowledgeable person to make money or a mere the sole object of his life. Mentally strong people crave something better than making money. All good workers ought to focus on performing their duty well enough, instead of getting paid for their work. They do like fees, but it is not the only goal of their lives. People who are brave and properly trained always prioritize their work and desire to get it done well.

Idea and structure are generally ok. Punctuation needs improvement.
