History is filled with people who had a very rough start in life, but later on, they made big for themselves. Success, Respect and popularity cannot be bestowed to any one, only wealth can and that too only if ~~your forefathers passed their wealth to you~~, ^{one has} ~~you have~~ generational wealth. With money one can buy all the material but not ^{contentment} ~~happiness~~. Sometimes it takes ages for a person to earn respect, but losing it or becoming ^{controversial} merely ^{requires} demands a moment.

History is replete with exemplary individuals who commenced their lives in exceedingly challenging circumstances, yet ultimately became illustrious and renowned personalities. Success, esteem, and fame cannot be bestowed upon you effortlessly; only wealth can be inherited if you have ancestral assets. For this, it is also essential that your predecessors have left you some property, only then can you acquire wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, it takes numerous years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes merely a moment to lose it by getting into a dispute or by committing a shameful act.
