Translation:

History is full of those people who faced a lot of difficulties in their lives, but later on, they were counted among the famous and successful individuals. Success and respect cannot be handed to you on a plate, however, money can be and that too is possible if your forefathers are landlords. Money can fulfill the basic needs, but it can't buy you happiness. Sometimes it takes decades to earn respect, while it only takes a moment to lose it.

History is replete with exemplary individuals who commenced their lives in exceedingly challenging circumstances, yet ultimately became illustrious and renowned personalities. Success, esteem, and fame cannot be bestowed upon you effortlessly; only wealth can be inherited if you have ancestral assets. For this, it is also essential that your predecessors have left you some property, only then can you acquire wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, it takes numerous years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes merely a moment to lose it by getting into a dispute or by committing a shameful act.
