History is full of examples of people who began their lives in the most difficult circumstances but later on become some of the world's most successful and renowned figures. Success, honour, and fame are never served to you on a plate; only wealth can be served to you in that way and even for that, there is a condition: you must have inherited property from your ancestors. Only then you will get wealth. With wealth, you can purchase worldly possessions, but not happiness. Sometimes, it takes decades to earn respect for a person, but one moment is enough to earn disgrace or become controversial.
