

If worldly temptation don't sway you, if the fear of Allah moves you to tears, if the thought of hell fills you with reverence, if you devote yourself to Allah with sincerity, and if virtue draws you in while vice repels you, then you are truly righteous. Some are naturally inclined towards righteousness, while others cultivate it. Being righteous is a gift, but becoming righteous require constant self-refinement and perseverance, which takes time and endurance.

If you are not lured by the world, if your eyes get wet because of fear of Allah, if the thought of hell instills fear of God in you, if you worship Allah as it ought be done, if goodness attracts you and you refrain from evil paths, then you are righteous/pious. Some are born righteous, some become righteous. Being righteous is a fortunate thing. Becoming righteous is a continuous process of purification and struggle. It takes time and also requires enduring hardships
