Intellectual people do not make money their prime objective in life. They like making money but it is not their side objective. For instance, a soldier, clergyman and doctor get paid for their services. ~~They like being paid but getting paid is not their goal.~~ Their real goal is to perform their respective services in the best possible way. Similarly, all brave and well-trained people give priority to their work. Though their fee is important to them but not as much as their work.
