

Q No: 02

Psychological footprints of Colonisation.

A psychological overview of colonisation depicts that colonisation was a double edged sword. Colonised people, still, yearn for good governance, education system and efficient administration of colonial masters. Colonisers, especially Britain and France, have fanned this idea tactfully. They claim colonized population had enjoyed their rule, which made them less resistant despite economic exploitation, cultural erasure and arbitrary detention. Colonial masters view decolonisation as loss of moral purpose. This has rendered a biased emotional and ideological interpretation.

Q No: 1

ANSWER:

Bashiran's family kept collecting Zakat and charity despite being stable for many reasons. Firstly, they have become addicted to it. Secondly, greed has overpowered them. Thirdly, they viewed it as legitimate source of income. So they felt no sense of guilt or shame in collecting Zakat and charity.

Q No: 2

ANSWER:

One can infer about the effectiveness of charity in Karachi that those who give charity are unaware about the receiver. There is no mechanism of registration or validation. Resultantly, undeserving persons are amassing wealth through charity.

Q No: 03

The author is trying to convey the message that some people are conscientiousless. They never care about the legitimacy of the source of income. Whenever such people are caught they exclaim, "No bussiness is bad, ~~no~~ and no religion greater than bussiness?"

Q No: 04

There could be myriad reasons for such people such as Bashir to stop collecting zakat. At first place, they are not attuned to any other profession. At second place, they might be obsessed with ~~more~~ ^{more} money devoid of hard work. At third place, such man silence their inner self and consider charity money as totally legitimate.

Q No: 05

The passage suggests that unchecked charity practices are anti-thetical to the very purpose of charity. It is likely that unchecked charity is likely to fall in wrong hands. This would have negative impact on the deserving people.

Moreover, this practice is also against the dignity of man.

Unchecked-charity erodes one's identity. In fact, the passage suggests that charity must be given with due process of registration, verification and to deserving people.

Ramanjan was a British India Mathematician.

His achievements in the field of space technology are used as a torch bearer even today. He could not get admission in college due to his despicable childhood accompanied by his apathy for other subjects except mathematics. However, a British Professor Hardy took him to Cambridge University where he was awarded with an honorary B.A degree. He is the sole creditor for the discovery of 2520 number. It is a peculiar number as it can be divided by each number from 1 to 9. Undoubtedly, Ramanjan was exceptional in his qualities. This genius died at the early age of 32 years in 1920 owing to unavailability of appropriate nutritious food in Britain. A film has been featured on the life of Ramanjan in as well in India.

CORRECT THE SENTENCE.

- (A) Hardly had he left the room
when the phone started ringing
- (B) Being a doctor, he diagnosed the illness very quickly.
- (C) If I had seen him, I would have told him the truth.
- (D) The committee has announced its decision
- (E) He is one of those writers
who have won many awards.

PREPOSITIONS

- (ii) His theory is not consistent ~~to~~
the available evidence.
- (iii) She was quick to jump ~~over~~ conclusions.
- (vii) The committee is composed ~~of~~ ~~of~~ experts.
- (viii) He was charged ~~with~~ contempt ~~of~~ court.
- (vi) The house is adjacent ~~to~~ a noisy construction site.

Punctuation.

As the rain poured outside, the detective turned to the suspect and said, 'I know you are hiding something.'

The suspect looked away and muttered, 'What makes you think that?' Your silence, for one replied the detective.

Besides, you were seen near the warehouse that night.

'That impossible' he snapped, 'I was out of town.'

Really! the detective leaned forward and placed a photo on the table. Case to explain this.

Then the suspect stared at the image, his eyes narrowing. 'Where did you get that, he whispered.

'That does not matter' said the detective, 'what matters is the truth?'