

DATE: _____

DAY: _____

Topic :

Delayed Marriages : Causes & Consequences

Brain storming

DATE: _____

DAY: _____

Essay Outline:

I : Introduction

- Explanation of marriage as social institution
- Rising global trend of delayed marriages
- Importance of understanding causes & consequences
- Thesis statement

II : Causes of Delayed Marriages

- A. Pursuit of Higher Education
 - Increasing academic & career goal
- B. Economic Instability & Career pressure
 - Unemployment, inflation & desire for financial independence
- C. Changing Social Norms & Rise of Individualism
 - Shift from collective to individualist societies.
- D. Urbanization & Migration
 - Disruption of traditional matchmaking system
- E. Rise in Non-traditional Relationship

DATE: _____

DAY: _____

- Conflict with Cultural & religious Norms

F. Fear of Marital breakdown:

- Concern about divorce & incompatibility

III: Consequences of Delayed Marriages

A. Positive Consequences

1. Emotional & Financial Maturity

- Better decision-making in choosing partners

2. Higher Marital Satisfaction

- Mature couples often report stronger communication & compatibility

3. Reduce Divorce rates

- Data often shows delayed marriages have a lower chance of early divorce.

B. Negative Consequences

1. Fertility Issues

- Higher risk of complication or infertility for older couples especially women.

DATE:

DAY:

2. Social pressure & Loneliness
 - stigma in conservative society
 - psychological impact of isolation or societal judgment.

3. Shrinking Family Size
 - Delayed parenting leads to fewer children.

- Impact on demographic balance & aging population.

IV: Conclusion

Thesis Statement:

The rising trend of delayed marriages is primarily driven by educational pursuits, economic challenges & shifting societal norms; while it offers some personal advantages, it also brings significant social, psychological, demographic & health-related consequences that demand careful policy & cultural intervention.

DATE: _____

DAY: _____

Introduction.

Marriage, as a Social & Cultural Institution, plays a Central role in the organization of human Society. However, in recent decades, a significant shift has been observed; the increasing trend of delayed marriages, particularly in developing Countries like Pakistan this trend is becoming more visible among both men & women due to a multitude of Socio-economic, educational, & Cultural factors.

While delayed marriages may offer certain individual benefits, they also pose serious consequences at the personal, familial, & Societal levels. This essay explores the primary Causes of delayed marriages & critically analyses their far reaching consequences.