

Part II

Q4. Correct the following sentences.

1. Running down the street, the bag fell from his hand.

- The bag fell from his hand, while running down the street.

2. The lawyer tried to cite the correct law, but his opponent accused him of making false sites.

- The lawyer tried to cite the correct law, but his opponent accused him of making false citations.

3. At the end of fall comes the hard test.

- At the end of fall, the hard test is coming.

4. The soldier was given a medal for his courage
while his colleagues
cheered for him.

United
Window Takaful Operator

تحفظ کی علامت

His colleagues cheered while ~~me~~ soldier was given a medal
for his courage.

s. We met for breakfast
yesterday:

Yesterday, we met for breakfast.

Qs. Punctuate the passage.

Punctuated passage:

"Let us explore the meaning of the quote, 'do unto others, as you would have them do unto you,'" said the teacher. The student replied, "Does it mean that if I want kindness, I must first show kindness?" The teacher nodded and said, "Exactly, it is treating people the way you wish to be treated." The student smiled and added, "So, if I respect others, I am more likely to be respected in return." "Yes," the teacher concluded, "that is the golden rule of life."

B. Prepositions.

1. She remained silent throughout the meeting, yet her eyes spoke volumes on her disagreement with the decision.

2. The cat ^{leapt} gracefully onto the shelf above the fireplace and curled itself around the vase.

3. His reputation rests on principles he never strayed from, even when under severe pressure.

4. Success often depends not merely on efforts but also on the opportunities presented to us.

5. The old diary was discovered in the ruins, carefully placed between two broken bricks.

Q6. Use following into sentence to bring out their meanings.

a. Sour grapes:

~~He couldn't get the tickets to the concert and called it sour grapes.~~

When an aspirant couldn't pass, he called the examining system corrupt. It sounded like sour grapes.

b. To raise a red flag.

Failing in a mock test raised a red flag for her regarding her preparation.

c. To go bananas.

The crowd went bananas went JK took
the stage.

d. Donkey's year.

I haven't met him
in ~~for~~ donkey's years. It feels like eternity.

Q7. Translation:

Helen Keller expressed in her writing, how she aspires to live her life, if she got her vision for three days.

According to her, on day one she wants to feel the warmth of love in her eyes by watching her loved ones.

On the second day, she desires to witness the wonders of nature; including, sun rays, greenery and the sky. Meanwhile, she wants to analyze the inventions of mankind and the splendors of world. For her, these three days would be enough ^{to} fill her dark world with light and hope.

Q3. Read the passage and answer the questions:

1- What humorous examples does the writer give to show how food is linked with different situations in Pakistan.

Writer gave various ^{humorous} examples showing the linkage of food with different situations like if there's raining, the first thing Pakistanis would think of is "pakoras"; Food appears to be the ultimate therapy ^{during} in heat wave; and if one has gotten depression, the best cure is haleem. For every situation there's a food that can act as coping mechanism for Pakistanis.

Q2. According to the text, why do cricket matches in Pakistan often become more about food than the game itself?

According to the text, the cricket matches in Pakistan often become more about food as the snacks become the ultimate form of ~~enjoy~~ joy, even if the match is stressful. The writer ~~states~~ that the games become stressful and food the absolute stress-reliever for Pakistan.

Q3. What can be inferred about the author's attitude towards Pakistan's Amusement Parks?

It can be inferred that the author sees the situation of amusement parks as bleak. They are either not maintained properly or are too old with their outdated equipments that once you go there, you are sure to get a backpain needing MRI.

Q4. The writer says, "Ironically
- - - - ? what does this mean?"

The writer is stating the dark reality of Pakistani people that all they could think about is
food and basic joys,
rather than thinking about
new areas, domains and innovations. Their perception has been limited and
they can't go beyond
thinking about "pait poogha"
(to fill their tummies).

Precis:

Title:

Civil Service in Pakistan:
Between public service and
personal branding.

Civil service in Pakistan:

Between reel and real life.

Once viewed solely as a prestigious public service, Pakistan's civil service has evolved into symbol of social prestige. Many pursue it for stability, respect and influence in country.

For some, however, it has become an all-consuming obsession tied to self-worth. A new trend adds further complexity: bureaucrats as social media influencers. With curated posts of authority, officers project a life-style image that often overshadows the behind the scene realities of governance.

While inspiring to some, youth,
this shift raises concern
about personal branding overtaking
the real role of public servicing.