ANSWER # 2

Civil Service: From Public Service to Personal Branding

TITLE: SOCIAL MEDIA'S INFLUENCE: EVOLVED CIVIL SERVICE PERCEPTION

Social media has evolved the perception of civil service in Pakistan. The lens has changed from only a public service role to a combination of necessity, obsession and a step to social status. Civil service is a dream for many because a government job provides more than a private one in terms of pay, influence and a gate to power groups. However, for others, it has become an obsession and a measure of self worth. So, people sacrifice their personal growth for this. Currently, the bureaucrat has become an influencer and remains more active on social sites than on official visits and office work. From making reels to fascinating their look on social sites with a caption like 'serving the nation', they had become a mixture of public servant and life style influencer. Some consider it as a source of inspiration for youth while other think of it as a source of distraction from the actual work.

PART I

The writer gives some humorous examples like at the end of family debates, conclusion is ~~come and have~~ let's have some food, when rain occurs people want pastoras like wise in heavy they want fast food and some nice Haleem in depression. Even when cricket matches become stressful they want golgappas outside the stadium. On asking hobby, they ask for briyani. Their biggest adventure is trying extra spicy broast and their wildest night life is midnight shawarmas. If ever aliens come there, they will offer them nihari. These examples show how food is linked with different situations in Pakistan.

PART II

According to the text, cricket matches in Pakistan often become more about food than the game itself because the match may be tense but having the gol gappas outside the stadium is the real victory.
