Essay

Work on your topic comprehension. Some ideas are fine but phrase it in a way that portrays the sense of gender equality.

Gender equality has always remained a taboo. Whether it is woman, transgender, or man of minorities itself have suffered. Due to the patriarchy woman has seen violence. One of the prime example is the most famous figure of Philosophy F is Friedrich Nietzsche, he said that "When you go to a woman take arguments and major among them is their arguments in such way like spreading awareness is more crucial to achieve gender equality, and upbringing of children plays a huge role in gender equality. However, these ~~prestige~~ are arguments are not valid and are like making mountain out of molehills.

To construct deeper understanding of topic, one must has to examine the relationship between education and gender equality. It is because without understanding relationship between them it is difficult to understand the necessity of education to cater gender equality. There are various countries, cities, and villages in the world but equality has been achieved by those which promoted education. Moreover, places with less ratio of education face the huge number of gender inequalities. For instance, the prime example is of

Balochistan recently a woman and her husband was killed. The reason was a love marriage, which shows that a less ratio of educated people in Balochistan saw this act as crime. However, education would have provided them sense that it was the legal and religious right of both. Therefore, education is necessary to promote gender equality.

The chief argument which justifies the thesis is that education provides equal opportunities of employment. It helps in empowering woman and promotes balance. Moreover, when a woman gets opportunity to work it helps in making her independent. Further, it helps her in equally contributing in economy of the country. Therefore, iE not only bridges the gender gaps but also provides a woman an equal opportunity. According to World Bank 2023 Report of Gender Gaps, countries with highest ratio of education are likely to reduce gender inequalities early than countries with less education. Thus, education provides opportunities of employment to promote gender equality.

Another argument which justifies the thesis is that education evokes the sense of equal rights. It helps in sparking the sense of equality through knowledge of human rights. Moreover, education provides the sense of demanding rights from government and authorities. Therefore, women demand the equal rights as men are getting in everywhere. For example, the first wave of feminism

was the demands of white women. White women were educated therefore, they demanded

You know how to argue which is a positive aspect. However, your ~~their~~ language is weak. Must work on it.

Shows that ~~education~~ provides the sense of ~~equal~~ rights. Hence, sense of ~~education~~ ~~equal~~ rights is provided by ~~education~~.

The next crucial point which justifies the thesis is that ~~education~~ give awareness about equality. In many societies, women are not aware about the equal treatment due to ~~education~~. Moreover, women see men as their providers, protectors, and kings. They do not speak even about discrimination. Furthermore, in many villages a son gets more food as compare to daughter because they think that a boy needs more and he deserves more. Nonetheless, education provides awareness that every human need equal ~~things~~ food to survive. Education provided awareness about equality like men.

Again the most significant point which validates the thesis is that education provides power to fight discriminations. Education provides knowledge about the legal rights.

IE helps in enabling a woman to fight for her right. Moreover, women with no education have no idea that they are being treated inequally. Nonetheless, education provides awareness about legal matters and motivates a woman to fight against discrimination. According to Asian Development Bank, women with education suffer less discrimination in their lives than women with no educational background. (Asian Development Bank, Woman Education in Asia, 2022) Ergo, education helps in fighting against discriminations.

On the similar note education is helping in representing every gender equally

Date: _____

~~Education helps in providing opportunities which further helps in representing every gender. Furthermore, it promotes the gender equality. There are many trans people are coming in front of the world and representing themselves through their talent. Further, education has again made them the member of society, before they were neglected by society. Therefore, education is necessary and effective tool to achieve gender equality. For instance, A university of California is now providing special opportunities for trans people. It is helping them in representing on different platforms. Which is helping in promoting gender equality. This shows that education helps in representing everyone equally.~~

In a similar vein, education helps in empowering to make the decisions. It provides sense to take decisions about everything. Further, education increase the confidence of decision making in women. When women had no opportunities to get education, men ~~used to~~ used to take decision in every matter. However, today women are working in many fields and deciding about their choices where they want to work and what career they will pursue. Moreover, education has enabled women to choose better for themselves. As Khalid Itussooni an Afghani-American quotes that "woman with education is the most intelligent entity on Earth. She can transform a jail into heaven with her decisions".

This, illustrate that education provides power of decision making to woman.

The next important point is that education helps in providing equality in policy making. When a woman get education, she becomes the part of decision making through her hardwork. Therefore, she gets chance to represent her fellow women. Men used to be the part of policy making but now education has enabled women to be the part of policy making. It portrays that education has the power to reduces the gender based gap.

Notwithstanding, there is another pretense which believe that education is not an effective tool to achieve gender equality. They present their argument as that spreading awareness is more effective to curtail gender equality.

There are various places, areas, and villages where providing education is not possible. It is because many people believe that education is not necessary for them. Therefore,

by spreading awareness in those areas gender equality can be achieved. For instance, in the country side of Italy education is not common among people, but they provide equality to women due to their awareness. This illustrates that spreading awareness is crucial to achieve gender equality.

The next key

Point is that the upbringing of children play a huge role in gender equality. When from the very young age, children see equal treatment they adopt this thing. Moreover, when parents treat daughters and sons equally, it helps in promoting the sense of equality in children. See each other as equal. Therefore, they do not discriminate. According to Sigmund Freud, a child ~~very~~ tries to copy his parents. A girl copies her mother and a boy copies his father. Therefore, their behavior will decide how a child will be in future.

This proves that the upbringing is a tool to achieve gender equality.

Date: _____

Again a result crucial point is that promoting equal treatment is effective to achieve gender equality. The discrimination is the product of society but through providing equal treatment they societal norms can be changed. Moreover, families should treat a daughter equal as son. Thus equal treatment helps in reducing gender based gaps. For instance, while making any important decision about anything in family a woman must be equally given opportunity to suggest her opinion. It helps in giving the message that women are not less than men. This signifies that by providing equal treatment gender equality is achievable.

The claim made by opponents spreading awareness is more effective in achieving gender equality is not valid.

Date: _____

It is because spreading awareness is not enough not to achieve gender equality. There are many people aware about the discrimination but due to no education they do not take this matter seriously. Therefore education is necessary to make people responsible and to achieve gender equality. Further, education evokes the sense of morality and ethics therefore people do not promote gender inequality.

Another claim made by opponents is also not valid which is that the upbringing of children play effective a role in achieving gender equality. The world is patriarchal, when a child interact with world he adopts the traits of from it. However education provides a sense to a man and forces him to think about right and wrong. It helps in promoting

Gender based equality. Furthermore, changing the structure of society is only possible through education. For instance, As ~~As~~ Deputy Commissioner Lalila Malik Sher was attacked by a man in 2022. It is because the man was unable to digest that a woman DC will operate the city. Therefore, education is necessary to tackle the mindset. (Dawn, 2022, August) This portrays that gender equality is only possible through education.

Last but not least, the argument of ~~opposition~~ opponent promoting equal treatment is effective to achieve gender equality is again invalid. Due to the fact education is crucial factor in promoting equal treatment. Education is the cornerstone of equality.

By curtailing education equality is impossible. It is because education is root of every equality.

Date: _____

It provides and empowers woman to get equality. It helps in getting employment, legal awareness, health, economic empowerment, and equal rights. Therefore, education is necessary to get equality.

Too short

To encapsulate

The whole discussion, the opponents present their arguments as that education is not effective to promote gender equality like, spreading awareness and upbringing of children in effective way. Promotes a role to control gender gaps. However, these arguments were neglected through points such as education provides equal job opportunities. Moreover, it helps in awareness about equality and helps in fighting discriminations. Nonetheless, thus, education is the most effective tool for achieving gender equality.
