From Public Service to Personal Branding

Evolution of Civil Service in Pakistan.

The perception about civil service in Pakistan has changed overtime. It has become a path to achieve material desires instead of pure public service. Some people ^{Pursue} persue this path because it offers a stable life and high social standing. For them it is a shortcut to success. Others persue civil service ^{merely} because of their obsession. For them clearing CSS is a matter of self-respect and they are ready to sacrifice everything for it. This narrative is perpetuated by success stories on Youtube and in admirer. Lastly, bureaucrats presenting a picture-perfect life on social media which is far away from reality, are increasing the ^{fascination} fascination of people with civil service. Some people defend these public servants - com-influencers by saying that they inspire youth.

Let us explore the meaning of the quote: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," said the teacher. The student replied, "Does it mean that, if I want kindness, I must first show kindness?" The teacher nodded and said, "Exactly. It is about treating people the way you wish to be treated." The student smiled and added, "So, if I respect others, I am more likely to be respected in return." "Yes," the teacher concluded, "that is the golden rule of life."

Q No : 03 Composition

(i) The writer gives humorous examples to explain the toxic and unhealthy relationship of Pakistanis with food. Food and particular dishes are linked to specific situations in Pakistan. If it's raining, people start craving pakoras. During heatwave people tend to cool their down their bodies with falooda and haleem. is the perfect solution for anyone feeling sad or depressed. Instead of choosing productive a reliable solution Pakistanis tend to go for food no matter what the situation because at this point food is not just a necessity to survive rather it's an emotion.

(ii) Cricket matches are more about food than the game itself because people snack the whole time while watching cricket. But it chips, pop-corn, cold drink or anything that they can manage to get inside the stadium.

If the game gets stressful or if their team loses the match, they get solace in gol gappas outside the stadium. Cricket gives them stress while street food comforts them. They might even achieve individual victories by eating more gol gappas than their partner.

(iii) The author mocks ^{on} the health of Pakistani people while saying that people will need to get their MRI done if they ever tried to take a ride in amusement park. It can be inferred that the health situation is devastating. Diabetes, obesity, cholesterol and heart issues are sky rocketing. Even the ~~min minimum~~ ~~smallest~~ people cannot even participate in anything that requires physical activity which is alarming for the health.

(iv) By saying, "Ironically, this obsession with food entertainment has created a society where waistlines expand but horizon do not," author means that we as a society stopped growing, stopped evolving and stopped developing since food became the reason of our entertainment. ~~For~~ We stopped thinking and dreaming because fats and cholesterol has blurred our vision - Lack of creative and productive amusement activities is one of the major reasons of our downfall as a society -

(v) People's reliance on food for recreation would have been definitely lesser or non-existent if Pakistan had developed entertainment industries like Disneyland or Broadway. It is because a child's brain is curious and always looks for things that satisfy his/her curiosity and food is definitely not one of those things. These kids _{eating}
