Qs 2

Ans According to text, cricket matches in Pakistan often become more about food than the game itself because the game can be stressful,

Q1 but the food outside the stadium (e.g. golgappas) is a highlight for the spectators.

Qs 3

Ans The author's attitude toward Pakistan's amusement parks seems to be one of skepticism and possibly criticism. The author mentions that the amusement parks exist, but humorously notes that, "one ride and your back pain will need MRI".

2 This suggests that the author thinks that the amusement parks may not be well-maintained or safe.

Qs 4

Ans This statement means that the excessive focus on food as entertainment in Pakistan has led to a society where people are physically expanding (gaining weight) due to overeating, but their mental and cultural horizons are not expanding. In other words, people are not exploring other interests or broadening their perspectives.

Qs 5

Ans If Pakistan had developed entertainment industries like Disneyland or Broadway, people's reliance on food as entertainment might decrease. With more options for entertainment, people might explore other activities and hobbies beyond food, leading to a more diverse and vibrant cultural landscape.
