

Mock for CSS 2026

Precis: "Ad hominem fallacy, An Evil"

The passage illustrates the ad hominem fallacy, where instead of addressing an argument, one attacks the person making it. A British court room anecdote shows a lawyer advised to attack the plaintiff's attorney rather than the case itself. Another example includes young Lincoln, who cleverly used a harmless form of ad hominem to sway a frontier jury: noticing his opponent wore a fashionable shirt buttoned at the back, he implied the lawyer lacked practical sense, which helped him win the case. The fallacy is old, dating back to the Sophists, and continues in modern politics. For instance, doubts about Eisenhower's health in 1956 or attacks on Roosevelt - due to his disability. Such arguments avoid real issues and instead undermine opponents personally.

Precis total words: 350

Precis words: 122

Q 5: Fill in the blanks:

- 1 The doctor gave me a prescription for my cough.
- 2 Nowadays Manku studies for the whole day.
- 3 Throw this pen into the dustbin.
- 4 He went into the desert.
- 5 The bird flew above my head.

Q 4: Correction:

- 1 The reading of poetry gives greater delight than the reading of prose.
- 2 Sir Huzefa left for Minwali. ~~Friday~~ last Friday, arriving there on Monday.
- 3 The Professor and Orator is dead.
- 4 I am one of those persons who cannot describe ~~with~~ what they feel.
- 5 I never did abuse and will never do abuse anyone.

Q 6: Change to reported speech:

- 1) Majid asked if that was my house.
- 3) The judge ordered to call the first witness.

4) The boy's mother told them not to blame him for the accident.

5) He said that he had knocked on the door but she had not answered.

6) She cried and asked where is the boat and asked us to hurry up because we were being chased.

Q5:B Punctuation

Two little frogs were playing about at the edge of a pool. when a ox came down to the water to drink, and by accident, trod on one of them, and crushed the life out of him. When the old frog missed him, she asked his brother, "Where he was?" "He is dead mother", said the little frog, "An enormous big creature with four legs came to our pool this morning, and tripped him down in the mud." "Enormous was he? Was he as big as this?" said the frog puffing herself out to look as big as possible. "Oh yes much bigger" was the answer, the frog puffed herself out still more.

"Was he as big as this?" she said.
"Yes, yes mother much bigger" said the little frog, and yet again she puffed and puffed herself out till she was almost as round as a ball, as she began but then she burst.

Q: no: 03: Reading Comprehension

Q no 1:

Answer:

Captain Ahsan Malik was given the duty to defend the village of Kamalpur. He served in the Pakistan Army during the 1971 war. He was posted on the East Pakistan border. He had only a small force with him. He led 140 soldiers from the 31 Baluch Regiment. They bravely fought against a much stronger enemy. Their courage impressed even the Indian Army chief. Because of this bravery, Ahsan Malik later received Sitara-e-jurat.

Q no 2:

Answer:

The American pilot Charles Brown

Survived World War II. Herman pilot Franz Stigler had spared him during the war. They did not see each other for a very long time. After forty years, they finally met again. Their meeting was emotional and full of respect. They talked about the past with gratitude. They become close friends after the reunion.

Qno:3

Answer:

True bravery is not just using weapons. It is also about showing humanity during war. A real warrior follows his conscience. He protects innocent lives whenever possible. Kindness in battle requires great courage. These actions show moral strength. Brave soldiers respect life, even of enemies. This kind of bravery leaves a positive mark on history.

Q no:4 Answer:

Kindness can soften even the hardest hearts. Courageous good deeds build unexpected trust. Enemies begin to see each other as humans. This can turn hatred into respect. Small acts of humanity can save lives. Saved lives can become strong friendships. Thus, kindness creates peace even after war.

Q no: 5

Answer

Charles Brown's damaged plane would have crashed. This merciful action would never have happened. He and his crew would have been killed. Their families would ~~have~~ lost them forever. Brown and Stigler would never have met again after forty years.

Q no 7: (Translation)

I wish we could play those games again such as Hide-and-seek, searching for treasure and many others. If those old days came back we could again feel those moments of happiness and carefreeness. We roam in streets with friends, enjoy and forget all the little quarrels during playing. Today, those moments become memories. Heart often feels absence of those moments when life was simple, pleasant and carefree.