Q No 2

AD HOMINEM ; THE ABUSIVE
FALLACY ✓

04/20

Ad Hominem is an abusive fallacy involves attacking the person instead of addressing their argument.
fallacy. A classic example of this fallacy is a British court scene where a lawyer resorts to abuse when he can no longer defend his case.

The lawyer ; Lincoln says to his the opponent that jury that his opponent does not even know ~~how~~ which side of the shirt should be the front side. Hence, he should not be listened to. Sophists might have been the first to resort to such fallacy. Presidents Eisenhower

Two little frogs were playing about at the edge of a pool when an ox came down to the water to drink and by accident trod on one of them and crushed the life out of him.

When the old frog missed him she asked his brother where he was. "He is dead, mother," said the little frog, "An enormous big creature with four legs came to our pool this morning and trampled him in the mud."

"Enormous! was he? Was he as big as this?" said the frog puffing herself out to look as big as possible.

"Oh yes, much bigger" was the answer. The frog puffed herself out still more.

"Was he as big as this?" said she. "Oh yes, yes, mother, much bigger," said the little frog.

I wish we could play those old games such as Gilli Danda, treasure hunt, and hide and seek. We would feel those moments of joy and carefreeness if those old moments could return. We would play among friends, and we would forget those little skirmishes during the play. Today, those old days have only become memories when life was simple, pleasant; and free of worries.

THE END.
