The Essay

"Democracy is the government of the People, by the people, for the people". This iconic phrase is attributed to Abraham Lincoln, the 16th president of the United States, from his Gettysburg Address delivered on November 19, 1863. Unfortunately Pakistan is facing the democratic unrest. The causes of democratic unrest in Pakistan are military intervention, corruption and governance issues, ethnic and regional divides, economic challenges and weak institutional framework, religious extremism and militancy. The frequent shifts between military and civilian rules have undermined the continuity and credibility of democratic processes. Corruption, nepotism, and inefficiency within
