The Ad Hominem Fallacy: Attacking the Man, Not the Argument

Title: The Importance of Present mindedness in the Legal Courts.

06/20

The ad hominem fallacy involves attacking the person instead of addressing their argument.

The writer tells a story about Lincoln's smartness in a court. Once an attorney for defense <sup>advised him</sup> tried to abuse his opponent through his ad hominem in a legal court. The attorney was an experienced his coat, the new style shirt, he was wearing, had buttons backside. The young Lincoln, who had limited chances of winning, smartly judged the jury's reaction. Lincoln briefly asked the jury, not to be influenced by his opponents knowledge of case because he even don't know how to wear a shirt. Lincoln won over the case this way. This type of
