

Role Of Women In Political And Economic Progress

1. Introduction

Thesis statement:

women's role in political and economic progress is undoubtedly significant. Their historical contributions in politics, since the inception of Pakistan, have been inspiring for other ladies. The great women leaders such as Fatima Jinnah, Mohatama Benazir Bhutto, Zartaj Gul have worked with determination. They fostered political progress by empowering marginalized communities and worked for societal change, education, child welfare and women empowerment. Similarly, economic contributions are evident from rising entrepreneurs, innovators and women workforce. Women are driving economic growth through dominance in fashion, textile and business industry. Even agricultural sector progresses through women's hard work, especially in rural population where they are main contributors for progress.

2. Role of women in political progress

- 2.1 Highlighting historical women contributors in politics.
- 2.2 Women's advocacy for societal change.
- 2.3 Female leaders foster inclusive and representative governance.
- 2.4 Women leaders contribute to protection and empowerment of other ladies.

3. Role of women in economic progress

- 3.1 Driving economic growth of the nation.
- 3.2 Fostering economy ^{as an} ~~through~~ efficient workforce in different sectors.
- 3.3 Bring economical strength by dominating in fashion and textile sectors.
- 3.4 Women's increasing appearance in entrepreneurship and innovation.
- 3.5 Women contribute in agricultural sector as labor force.

36 Increasing women participation in technology and development.

4. Conclusion

No nation can rise the height of glory unless their women are side by side with them..

(Muhammad Ali Jinnah)

Every nation desires economic and political progress to enhance their influence and power. Without women's participation, it has always remained as a distant dream.

History explicitly shows the contributions of great women leaders and innovators in both both economic and political progress. Women's role in progress and prosperity of a nation remains undeniable. Their historical contributions in politics, since the inception of Pakistan, have been inspiring for other ladies. The great women leaders such as Fatima Jinnah, Mohtarma Benazir Bhutto and Zartaj Gul have worked with determination. They fostered political progress by empowering marginalized communities and worked for societal change, education, child welfare and women empowerment. Similarly, economic contributions are evident from rising entrepreneurs, innovators and women workforce. Women are driving economic growth through dominance in business, fashion and textile industry. Even agricultural industry progresses through women's hardwork, especially in rural populations where they serve as great contributors. In addition to this, women's play important role in science and technology contributing to overall progress of whole nation.