Translation

In the preparation of intellectual examinations, there are few such students who think that if they store the cover of the book or keep the notes below their pillow, they will be the toppers. These are the people who search recommendations even in their prayers after two days of preparation. However, the truth is it that neither there is a "mysterious stick" nor there is a "short cut" to success. If they need exceptional results, then they should do exceptional hardwork as well. Therefore, for the next time, when you will be holding a cup of tea by thinking that "should I study or not", then remember that success cannot be achieved by joking, but by ~~work~~ hardwork.
