Q NO 7

What is PEPA Act? Explain its cores.

ANSWER

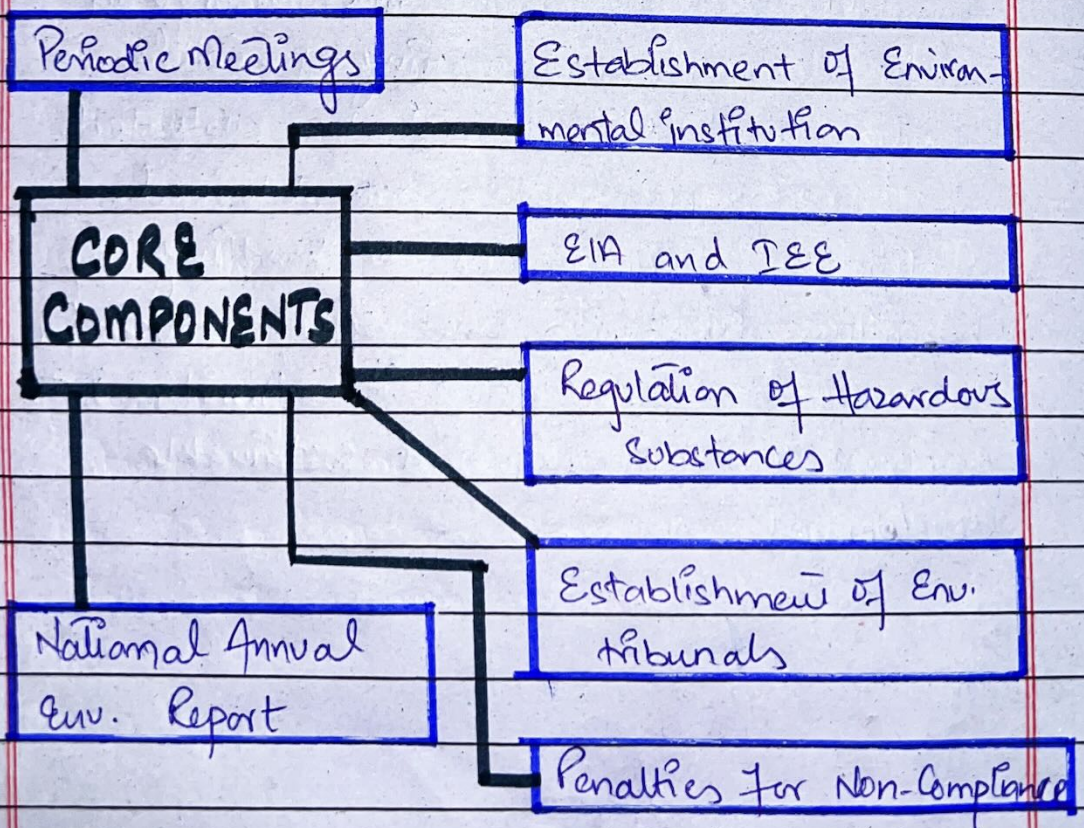

INTRODUCTION

Pakistan Environmental Protection Act of 1997 is a legislative framework which aims to safeguard the environment in Pakistan. The Act establishes key institutions such as the Pakistan Environmental Protection Council and the Pakistan Environmental Protection Agency, to oversee and implement environmental policies. The Act mandates that any project must undergo an initial commencement, ensuring potential environmental effects must be evaluated and necessary approvals are obtained. Additionally, PEPA regulates the handling of hazardous substances and sets penalties for non-compliance, reinforcing its commitment to environmental protection and sustainable development.

WHAT IS PEPA 1997?

The Pakistan Environmental Protection Agency Act (PEPA) of 1997, is a legal framework enacted to safeguard, conserve, rehabilitate, and enhance Pakistan's environment. Main aim of the act is to control pollution and promote sustainable development. Under this act Pakistan environmental protection council and PEPA agencies who were responsible for undertaking inquiries of investigation into environmental issues.

CORE COMPONENTS OF PEPA:

ESTABLISHMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL INSTITUTIONS:

1. → Pakistan Environmental Protection Council
