"My quaint Ariel," said Prospero to the little sprite when he made him free, "I shall miss you; yet you shall have your freedom."

"Thank you, my dear master," said Ariel, "but give me leave to attend your ship with prosperous gales before you bid farewell to the assistance of your faithful spirit."

(B)

John asked Bob if he had heard the news about Jake. Bob replied he had not and asked what had happened.

John told him that Jake had been terminated the previous day and asked Bob if he could believe it.

Bob, shocked, exclaimed that it was surprising that Jake had been terminated and questioned why it had happened. He added that he thought Jake had been doing ~~good~~ well in his role.

John replied that budget cuts had been made, and as a result, a few people had to be let go. He said that it was really unfortunate.

Bob commented that it was terrible since Jake had been ~~working~~ there for years.

~~He~~ He then asked about how Jake was handling the situation.

John explained that Jake was not coping well, as he was understandably shocked and frustrated. He mentioned that he had tried to reach out to offer support but Jake was still processing everything.

Bob said that it was too hard and hoped that Jake would bounce back. He added that it was always tough when someone you had worked with for so long had to go through something like this.

John agreed that it was a tough reality and they would miss having him around the office. He hoped that Jake would land on his feet soon.
