

Question No. 2

Precis

Erosion of Sportsmanship

Sportsmanship is a trait that refers to upholding fairness and respect for others. It involves maintaining self-control and respect to the opponents and authority. The four elements of sportsmanship - good form, the will to win, equity and fairness - must be balanced to embody true sportsmanship. However, if they are not in balance a person may prefer win to fairness and equity. In modern day elite sports, the competition and winning overshadowed sportsmanship and elite athletes serve as role models in society. Not showing respect to opponents and blaming other for the loss are manifestation of poor ~~sports~~ sports.

Sportsmanship. It can lead to demoralizing effects. As Leslie Howe describes that if one considers his opponent as inadequate, it causes low self-esteem in athletes.
