

QNO3

Precise

The Art of Politics

Politicians amaze with their unmatched verbosity and skillful evasion. They use cunning plots and exaggerating words as an act in grand theatre of governance. They are masters of linguistic acrobatics. When even a simple question is asked, they skillfully evade it showcasing their intellectual capacity. If anyone questions their motives, they make them lost in their words' puzzle. They are experts in playing promise game. Promises which are forgotten once votes are counted. Their theatrical skills are respectable. Whether shedding crocodilean tears or displaying acts of indignation, they never fail to entertain. Their well-timed photo-ops hold more power than any pen or sword. They have unmatched talent of self-preservation. They change with the circumstances seamlessly and escape scandals cleverly. Their actions are the reminder that leadership seems to be more about perfecting performance than serving the public.

Q No 5 (A)

A boy was gathering berries from a hedge when his hand was stung by a nettle. Smarting with the pain, he ran to tell his mother and said to her between his sobs, "I only touched it ever so lightly Mother!" "That is why you got stung my son," said she. "If you have grasped it firmly, it would not have hurt you in the least."

(B) Blanks

- i. She came for the wealth on her father's death.
- iv. Every candidate tries to pull over each voter.
- v. The poor live with their honest wages.
- vi. They did not swear to God.
- viii. He is leaning over the wall as he is not feeling well.

Q No 7 - Translation:

Some students, preparing for competitive examination, think that by staring at book's cover or placing notes under their pillows would make them top the exam.

They prepare less and find miracles in prayers. The fact is ~~is~~ no short-cut to success exists. Extraordinary effort is required for extra-ordinary results. So next time, holding a cup of tea and thinking whether you should study or not, remember that success demands hardwork.

QNO 3: Read the ... answer the question that follows:

① ~~Answer~~ What can be inferred about the environmental impact of renewable energy production compared to traditional fossil fuels?

Answer: It may be less harmful but it still poses the threat. As production of renewable energy sources requires extensive mining to extract metals and destruction of habitats occurs as a by-product. Also, green house gases emit during production and recycling is also a serious task. So at the end, renewable energy ^{production} also pollutes environment though its impact is a little less severe than traditional fossil fuels.

Question (2) How far the electric vehicles (EV) are environmental friendly?

Ans: They are not as environment friendly as they are considered to be. Such as their batteries are re-charged by electricity that is produced via fossil fuel burning. Also, once their batteries expire, it's difficult to dispose them off which also contributes to environmental pollution and toxin accumulation in environment.

(3) What challenge is associated —

Ans: When renewable energy systems reach the end of their lifespan, the question of their disposal becomes critical. Recycling these components is neither straight forward nor widely practiced, often resulting in the accumulation of toxic waste in environment.