Life does not always go straight. In childhood when we used to be carefree every moment seemed happy and playful. But as we stepped into adulthood, the pressure of the realities of life taught us our responsibilities. The dreams that we saw in the past are sometimes completed and sometimes become distant and unachievable. People who learn from their past, lay a strong foundation for their future. Respect the present, because only present can change our fortune. Remember time never stops ticking for anyone but those who respect time become successful.
