Topic: Shifting the Paradigm From Overpopulation to Population Management

Outline:

1. Introduction:

Thesis Statement: The paradigm of overpopulation can be shifted by proper population management. As by managing overpopulation, it can be proved as an asset for a country.

Therefore, by following specific steps, the consequences of overpopulation can be mitigated and managed properly.

2. How the paradigm can be shifted from overpopulation to population management

3. How overpopulation can be proved as an asset

a. Overpopulation gives cheap labor force to the country

b. Overpopulation contributes to the enlargement of domestic market

c. Overpopulation contributes to country's economy by flow of remittances

d. Overpopulation attracts foreign direct investment

e. Overpopulation protects the country at the time of crisis

4. Challenges to manage the overpopulation

a. Higher population requires higher employment resources

b. Overpopulation leads to food insecurities

c. Overpopulation contributes to climate crisis

d. Overpopulation demands for larger health facilities

e. Overpopulation contributes to higher crime rates in society

5. Steps to manage overpopulation

a. Government should ~~manage~~ produce employment resources to manage the overpopulation

b. Local government system should be strengthened to manage

So, in evidence that it is overpopulation requiring

- a. the overpopulation of provinces
- b. Government should provide educational facilities
- c. Family planning courses in urban areas
- d. Government should work for women's education for the welfare of society

6. Conclusion

population of poverty below the the light

Overpopulation is a weapon against the enemy.
This proverb shows that overpopulation is not a liability for a country, rather it is an asset, if it is managed properly.

Overpopulation contributes to the economy of country for providing cheap labor and remittances to the country. It can enhance the domestic market and attracts foreign direct investment.

It <sup>protects</sup> ~~attracts~~ the country at the crisis. However, there are some challenges to manage the overpopulation.
It requires higher employment resources and health facilities.

Overpopulation leads to food insecurities and contributes to climate crisis. It also leads to higher crime rates in the society. But by following of included that for requirements.

2. Challengable

Some specific steps the consequences of higher population can be mitigated. Government should produce employment resources and educational facilities. Local government systems should be strengthened to manage the population of provinces, and towns. Family planning courses should be taught in urban areas to control the overpopulation. Government should enhance the women's education for the welfare of society. The paradigm of overpopulation can be shifted by proper population management. As by managing overpopulation, it can be proved as an asset for a country. Therefore, by following specific steps, the consequences of overpopulation can be mitigated and managed properly.

of evidence, it concluded that over

Overpopulation gives cheap labor force to the country. The reason for the overpopulation as an asset is that it provides cheap labor force to the country. If a country having higher population decide to work on any project, then it has an opportunity of having higher labor force which demands low price. In this way, the low price helped the government to work properly on the project and strengthen its economy. China is a significant model in this case. The higher population of China helped the country to be an emerging power in the world by working on different projects

the
in the evidence it overpopulation requiring inside and outside the country with cheap labor force. So in a nutshell, overpopulation gives cheap labor force to the country.

Overpopulation contributes to the enlargement of domestic market. The reason is that higher population worked for the welfare of families and societies. Higher population requires high resources of employment.

If a country unable to provide jobs or employment resources to the public, then they started their own businesses to manage the life. Entrepreneurship, in this way, contribute
domestic labour which is also useful for the economic system.

of country. The emerging economy of India is significant in this way. As India is among the top countries having higher population. But government of India is unable to provide enough employment resources to the public. So they started their own business and enhanced the domestic market which indirectly contributes to the country's economy. Hence, it is concluded that overpopulation contributes to the enlargement of domestic market.

Overpopulation contributes to country's economy by flow of remittances. The reason is that the home country becomes unable to produce enough resources for the employment of higher population. So in in evidence that overpopulation is requiring

the result, many citizens try to move any foreign country for employment. They sent back money to their families in dollars, which helps the families to manage life as well as the country to receive dollars and enhance the economy.
Many citizens of Pakistan go to USA, UK and Middle Eastern countries in search of employment.
According to the recent report, the 70% of remittances in Pakistan are received from UAE and Saudi Arabia which contribute to enhance the economy. So, in the light of evidence it is concluded that population of poverty light ..

country's economy by flow of remittances.

Overpopulation attracts foreign direct investment.

The reason is that overpopulation contribute to the enlargement of domestic market, which attracts the foreign direct investment. Foreign direct investment helps the country to manage its economy and produce resources of employment for its citizens. India, an emerging economy, is well-known for attracting

foreign direct investment.

As the large population of India enhanced its domestic labor market and attracts many foreign direct investments in fields of technology and medicine, nutrition, foreign direct investment, overpopulation attacks Overpopulation protects the country at the time of crisis. If a country decided to attack on other country.

If the suffering country has higher population, then its population helped the country to protect itself by making troops and nuclear atoms. A western philosopher, Aristotle also suggested the moderate size of population. He said that the size of population should be large enough that it can protect the country in the time of crisis. So, in this way, it is concluded that overpopulation of Pakistan protects the country at the time of crisis.

However, overpopulation is an asset for a country.

But to managing the overpopulation, a country faces significant challenges.
Higher population - requires higher employment resources.

higher population seeks resources of employment to manage life but the country becomes unable to provide enough resources. A country feels helpless in providing enough resources for the overpopulation. As a result, country fell prey to internal issues which is challengeable for the country at domestic and global level. The lack of employment resources results in poverty. According to World Bank, 40%.

population of Pakistan lives below the poverty line. So, in the light of evidence, it is concluded that overpopulation is challenging for providing higher employment resources. Overpopulation leads to food insecurity. The reason is that a country, developing a lower-economic, is unable to provide enough food for the overpopulation. As a result, country faces the challenges of famine or food insecurity. A recent released report said that Pakistan is among the top countries in order to food insecurity. As Pakistan is among top five countries having higher population, so it becomes difficult for the Country to produce enough food for the citizens in such economic crisis, in a nutshell, overpopulation leads to food insecurities.

Overpopulation contributes to climate crisis. The reason is that, the country having higher populations need to produce enough resources for citizens by industrial sectors or imports and exports the goods. The industrial sector and transportation are major contributors to climate crisis. As it is well-known the countries

having higher population
i.e: China and India, are also largest producers of carbon emission

This carbon emission contribute to climate change which is a major issue at present. So, it is evident that overpopulation contributes to climate change.

Overpopulation demands for larger health facilities.

A developing country is unable to facilitate enough health facilities to higher population due to economic crisis. This results in the domestic crisis of country. It also blamed the country at global level. As it is evident that at the time of

COVID-19, the Government of India was unable to provide enough health facilities to the citizens. This blamed the government at domestic and global level. So, it is concluded that overpopulation demand for high health facilities. Overpopulation contributes to higher crime rates in the society. The reason is that it is a human nature to acquire more and more resources. So it makes a competition among citizens to acquire more resources and manage life. According to Strain theory of criminology this competition of acquiring resources create difference among citizens. The citizens having lower resources feel fear and envy to citizens having larger resources. So the citizens having lower resources go to crimes to acquire those resources which is a challenge for the country. So it is concluded that overpopulation contributes to higher crime rates.

However, it is challenging for the country to manage the higher population. But by following some specific steps, the overpopulation can be managed properly.

Government should produce employment resources to manage the overpopulation. The govt. should strengthen the economy by attracting FDI to produce resources for its overpopulation. By foreign direct investment, the citizens have opportunities of employment which help them to manage life. The government of Pakistan is a source of many FDI such as most significant one is CPEC. CPEC helps the Pakistanis to acquire employment resources. So in a nutshell, the government should produce employment resources for the citizens.

Local government systems should be strengthened to manage the overpopulation of provinces. The reason is that if a country does not have local government then it will become difficult for center government to resolve the issues of citizens. So a country having overpopulation should make local governments to resolve the issues of population in provinces.

As Pakistan has local governments in all its provinces which resolve the issues of citizens and federal government feels free from these 12/11/23. So it is evident that government should strengthen its local government to manage the overpopulation.

Government should provide educational facilities.

The government having overpopulation faces challenges of social or economic and political issues. So it should provide educational facilities to its citizens.

This help them to get knowledge of economy and politics and helps the country in mitigating these issues. But the girls in Pakistan are facing educational discrimination which hinders them from entering into economic and political platform. Only 22% of Pakistani women are able to enter at workplace. So it is concluded that government should provide educational facilities to its citizens. Family planning courses in urban areas should be taught to control the overpopulation.

The reason is that many uneducated families in urban areas think that producing more children is a good deed and abortions are against Islam. This leads to increase population in the country. As a result country faces issues due to overpopulation. So it is concluded that family planning courses in urban areas are best step to control over population.

To cut the story short, it is concluded that paradigm should be shifted from overpopulation to the management of population. The proper management of population help the country to perform well at national and international level.

So it is concluded that overpopulation ~~is~~ is an asset rather than liability.
