Oratory of Sir Winston Churchill

The future of Oratory is difficult to predict as it is not given due attention. Unlike ancient times, today, people are not required to learn Oratory. The growth of written language and increase in number of speakers have reduced the importance of Oratory. Similarly, people in this busy era provide less attention towards learning Oratory. Sir Winston Churchill, the survivor from golden period of Oratory, always speaks in organised way balancing ideas and language. For many years he has addressed national and international forums and his speeches are ^{great} example of oratory which made him prominent figure of his time.
