↳ It failed to be workable approach towards peace making. When we see

The contemporary issues, the reasons behind such failure are power politics, and national interests, role of institutions,

Norms and Identity, Nationalism,

Protectionism, Isolationism and extremism

Justify your arguments with at least 8-9 headings

(i) Power Politics and National interests:

Realism focuses on inherent power dynamics and self-interested behavior of states in an anarchic environment of international system. Realists enlighten the fact that states do not comply the international law when it align with their national interest i.e. security and economic considerations -

One prominent example of power politics is Syria conflict - In Syria, international law: Security UN council mandates and humanitarian law, has been ignored. This Rather than the controlling measures like Geneva Convention and Responsibility to Protect (R2P), the circumstances can't be handled just because the international law not observed due to powers interests of that region. Russia veto's power in the UN security council has blocked the peace keeping interventions as well as U.S also prioritize their geo political interests over legal considerations.

Another example can be seen in Iran's conflict Iraq War, it is a clear incident when international law failed to prevent conflict. The U.S interventions invaded the region by violating the IL in UN security council using threat of their weapons and mass destruction so that powerful states should not comply with international law when there are their national and security interests.

2- The role of International Institutions:

International law with the liberal perspective emphasizes on the coordination and democratic reforms of international institutions for the peace making by talks and agreements. International Institutes like United Nations (UN) and International Criminal Court (ICC) and trade agreements should focus on harmony among the states but but they failed to play their role effectively due to unwillingness of politics to end climate change

One example is that ICC condemned Metanyahu to stop the Israeli attack against Gaza and gave an arrest warrant but still due to US back, Metanyahu didn't stop his ridiculous behaviour and balancing that his behaviour is in the ~~pro-Palestinianism~~ of Hamas in Gaza.

Moreover, the Paris Climate Agreement shows another limitation. This law text addressing climate changes - the measures about this agreement is varying from states that this cannot be implemented due to robust enforcement as well as America's green strategy. Nearly though also upholds the behaviour of being in agreement due to its national interest concern.

4. Emerging global challenges and viability of International law:

The contemporary global challenges like terrorism, cyber security and climate change become so intertwined international law fails to achieve them due to environmental, non-global factors, political interests, technological advancements.
Furthermore the rise of ISIS and extremism provokes the sense of peace value due to their non-table and robustly violated behaviour as well

3. Norms and Identity in International law:

No in IP scenario, there is a strong constructionism, it demonstrates on the beautification of norms and identities.

States in international law 4

as their operations across the border bring the limitations to follow international law efficiently besides the treaties and agreements.

However, climate change issues tackle through various agreements and treaties but still many global treaties are not followed and implementation of legal frameworks not chapter fully fulfills.

Conclusion:

Thus, The failure of International law is done by the nationalism, isolationism and national security and economic interests so that it can be undermine by mutual cooperation and promoting multi-lateralism.

Question no:

Globalization seems to be losing its ground. Discuss in length its contemporary relevance:

Introduction:

Globalization is evolved in 20th and 21st century where many issues can't resolve without involvement of international issues i.e. pandemic and cyber security. But with the rise of nationalism in different states and anarchic between of international system such globalization losing its ground. Still technological and economic factors blurring the unilinear or globalization - As the globalization can't disappears but its nature and dynamics shifted.

1- Return of Nationalism and Power Politics:

According to realistic perspective, state is a rational actor and it can't compromise when there is H's sovereignty - State always confront its national interests i.e. security and economic considerations rather than cooperated globally.

In 2016, Brexit is a prominent example where United Kingdom voted for Europe to leave European Union. This decision of such leave was national interests, sovereignty and economic autonomy. This trend become viral in all west part and now like USA domestic industries are favoured as well as rise of nationalism and isolationism seen through some incidents i.e. not upholding Paris Agreement, Immigration criteria by west.

Moreover, the trade-war between U.S and China exemplifies that how U.S for their economic autonomy.

concerns impose restrictions over Union and limited itself to be in favor of trade and globalized. China on certain values to be globalized. Thus law shows the concept of protectionism between free trade.

2- The Strain on International Institutions and Coperation:

According to the liberalism theory?

The liberalist focuses on the coordination, and multilateral belief stands for peace and democratic environment. Globalization is a demand of liberal society but with the rise of nationalism the cooperation is limited.

The Paris UN and other global institutions - WTO for instance, has been utilized for welfare or slow in responding to global issues i.e. Doha Development Round.

It fails to address the economic needs of developing countries underscored the difficulty in reaching consensus in current global order.

The Paris climate change agreement is another example which can witness about 200 countries in economic climate

3- Changing Norms and Identities:

According to constructivism, norms and identities are the source of any national actor and they can attain that at any cost. Globalization keeps the states and organization interconnected but constructivism argued that the decline in the globalization due to rise of nationalism, populism and anti-globalization sentiments.

The Trump administration "America First" is an example of isolationism that how identity policies and nationalism ideologies undermine global norm of cooperation.

Additionally, the migration crisis in Europe brought to light the tension between globalized ideals of border so that they can protect the domestic cultural and economic autonomy. The influx of Syria refugees from Syria and Afghanis promote the anti-migrant segments, exemptions by the success of France National Rally so change occurring but US withdrawn under Donald Trump demonstrate the feasibility of multilateral cooperation in face of rising nationalism

it can creates tension between the global movement of people

De-globalization or Transformation?

While cultural and political factors that punting back against globalization, technology and communication as well as economic factors promotes Globalization - E-commerce, freelancing logistics, Amazon, web services, cyber security concerns, global financing, social media, driving fading off the key elements which propagates Globalization.

The use of social media i.e

Facebook, Twitter are connecting people and keep moving. The environment refers to global social moves held in each state. This refers to three (or more) interconnectedness in spite of political and cultural agendas.

The global supply chain as well as digital economy propagates the global financing and free-trade and this is done for the economic considerations of national interests - Saudi e.

Climate Change, Pandemic and

Global Health:

The Pandemic and cyber security undermines the relevance of globalization. As there virus can't be solved by any country alone and requires international cooperation. The solution for Covid-19 pandemic highlighted the benefits attached by globalization.

In case of climate change, international agreements like Paris Agreement emphasizes the need for global cooperation to address a problem that know no boundaries. Some countries withdraw themselves the norm of environmental cooperation continue to evolve on global scale.

Conclusion:-

It is true that globalization is facing challenges in the form of民族ism and political isolationism, nationalism and losing its relevance. But the technological driven, social media propagation are the powerful drivers of globalization. So that globalization is not linear or uni-directional process - Globalization is not disappearing but its nature and dynamics are shifting.

Question no. 8(i) Russia - Ukraine war:(ii) Power, Security and National interests:

By focusing on power, security and national interests phenomena, Realists thought about that the this war is due to prevent national interests i.e. security and economic considerations, power dominance by Russia and security concerns from NATO and EU. Russia wants dominance over the region and it does not wish that Ukraine united with the west. The expansion of NATO and EU is a dynamic threat for Russia because of its security interests. The war is framed as Russia's effort to marginalized U.S. reassent and prevention of West encroachment.

(iii) Failure of institutions and diplomacy:

The liberals perceive that the cause of war is due to failure of institutions role and diplomacy. By the aspiration of Ukraine in joining EU and NATO reflects its integration in west. Ukraine wants its international cooperative involvement but Russia restrict its due to Crimea location and red sea existence. The failure of international institutions seen i.e. OSCE to mediate between the EU and NATO insufficient engagements with Russia.

Seems like current affairs paper.

(c) Identity and Historical Narratives :-

The followers of constructionism believe that Anna - Ukraine war is because of identity and historical narratives. Ukraine has been perceived that he is the protector of all Ukrainian population and Ukraine belongs to it due to history perspective. The war began when Ukraine in 2014 developed a national identity and European orientation began with in the country. This conflict can also be seen as clash of identities and narratives of history and sovereignty.

B- Israel - Hamas war

(i) Balance of Power and Territorial Disputes:-

The realistic perspective that Israel - Hamas war is due to balance of power, security concerns and territorial disputes. Israel is very concerned about its territory and security. Israel thinks that Hamas is an Islamic militant and wants to protect their. Israel is our region and we should be the owner and resists Israeli's occupation. So the conflict began for territorial control, security concerns, dominance for power and survival.

i-e Proxy wars :-

The failure of international agreements like Oslo Accords and the absence of cooperation to settle the peace building. The lack of functional international order had promoted peace between Israel and Palestine. The other communities are seen which involved with both parties to settle their national interests and to be world order is seen. Such war contributed violence and hits the humanitarian areas.

Identity and Historical Narratives :-

Constructionism is the theory of international relations which claims that Israel - Hamas war is due to identity and historical narratives. Israel wants dominancy and keeps its identity remain and claim that palestine region belongs to it due to their religious belief. Affiliations: Hamas resistance to Israel is deeply tied to its ideological commitment to armed struggle and its rejection of Israel's legitimacy, while Israel views Hamas as an existential threat to its statehood.

QUESTION:

What are the main reasons of revival of multipolar order? comment its reality on a myth.

Introduction:

After the cold-war, there is uni-polar world order which rule over the dominance in economy, politics and other institution. But with the time, after the financial crisis 2008, most other states get the chance to be dominant by various means in politics, technology, collaboration with international organizations, trade as well as ideological and cultural perspective.

Main triggers for the revival of a multiple world order:

(i) Rise of Emerging Powers:

The economic growth of multiple countries like Russia, China, India and Brazil shifted the balance of global power as is seen as a primary force to push towards the multipolar world.

These nations increasingly assert their economic and political influence on global stage and challenging the traditional western powers. Russia and China collaboration in the form of de-dollarization is an example of ~~marginalizing US based world order -~~

(ii) Decline of uni-polarity:

After the cold-war, US appeared as the world order. However, with the time, US relative power waned and it turns into there is conflict with Iraq and Afghanistan. The intervention of troops drag the US down in economy and military perspective. In 2008 Financial crisis went, especially in US dominate the decline of uni-polarity, thereafter gave space to the the other nations to emerge economically and politically to form new multi-polar world order.

(iii) Economic Shifts:

Previously, most than the uni-polar world order had economic dominance i.e. IMF and WB, however, with the rise the international organization i.e. WTO and BRICS (Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa) collab with each other and starts free-trade between them. The de-dollarization ideology hitted the western financial system badly. Now banks, BRICS bank and banks and currency faced with challenges

(iv) Technological Advances:

~~Russia and China collaborating with each other to challenge the U.S hegemony i.e. Artificial intelligence, freetexting, state banned applications, isolated web connection and digital economy, defense capabilities as well as technology in renewable energy sector. These innovations reducing the asymmetry of power that existed under U.S based system.~~

(v) Shifts in Ideological and cultural Power:

~~Western - global governance concepts are marginalize by the new concepts of ideologies of power - the China gave the idea of about authoritarian capitalism as well as Russia gave the illiberal democracy phenomena. These ideologies minimize the ideology of western capitalism and influence of U.S unipolar world order over the globe. All other nations individually making their~~

Reality or a Myth?

(i) Multipolar world is a reality?

China Dominance

China has shown its dominance by trade route BRI (Belt-Road Initiative) which is the prominent factor to exert influence over Asia Africa and Europe.

Russia Resurgence

Russia assert in eastern Europe, Syria and it can also prevents the expansion of NATO and certain institutions. It is a sign that U.S no longer enjoyed unipolar world order.

Regional Blocs

The European Union (EU) and BRICS have emerged economic power which can decentralise the global authority.

Conclusion:-

While world is moving towards multipolar world configuration, this has not realized fully. There are structural economical and political barriers which strained the development of multipolar world order. Therefore the arrival of multipolar world order is more slowly than myth but it remains an ongoing and incomplete process.

Question:

According what changes you expect in American's foreign policy ----- implications.

Introduction:

Trump is now the 47th U.S president of United States of America which is the world order. From the previous rule of Trump some changes expected in the foreign policy of China which are dominantly one America First configuration, Unilateralism and Isolationism, Protectionism, low military engagement globally, withdrawal from the climate change based policies as well as soft corner for Russia and hard aspect for China. This can effect the globe politically by power shift, Economically by sanctions and socially by withdrawal from agreements.

1- America First Policy refers to Unilateralism and Isolationism:

Expected change	Global implications
Trump's "America First" doctrine reinvigorated. The Trump will focus on U.S. national interests and repudiate international agreements, domestic institutions, immigration restrictions, and new skepticism and retrenchment.	Due to the reinvigoration of 'America First' Donald US minimized its involvement in climate change agreements, Middle East Asia conflicts, UN and WHO. The other countries might feel need to step up in areas where US played a role.

China Expected changes	Global implications
Previously Biden maintains Trump's behavior Trump want the dominance over the globe so that work with west if he can't take the in its own interest Previous rule made → wants national strategies to keep Taiwan identity and with itself and its restricting China influence on South China policy. See.	Biden maintains Trump's behavior Trump's trade war with China is not favourable and also impose tariffs for the China and on China good. Trump also know that China is too competitive so that PRC and border he prolonged this trade war and did not good Biden to cause the conflict diplomatically because that "protect the China different ideology". Xi-lobby besides and interests.

2- China and Russia

Russia Expected change	Global implications
Russia & Trump in its speech promised to withdraw behaviour is a and stop the war between Russia and Ukraine by talks talk and going hands with Putin → Trump used the 24-hours. Trump needs to prove idea of multilateralism to another like which promote peace.	Trump's "Russia First" doctrine, US minimized its involvement in climate change agreements, Middle East Asia conflicts, UN and WHO. The other countries might feel need to step up in areas where US played a role.

3- Military Defense and Engagement

Expected changes	Global implications
President invited but Trump's pronoun and by it sovereignty diplomatic talk with Russia.	Trump may favour → this could create the military withdrawal a power vacuum from world conflicted the regions, where regions. As he did previously - there is resilience and cannot speak to US troops especially on military interventions in middle east. and will talk about themselves diplomatically - more aggressively.

DATE: 1/1

4- Human Rights and Democracy Promotions

Expected change Trump would align with that countries which can favour U.S. efficiency rather than promoting universal values across the globe. Global implications This could lead to the de-prioritization of the human rights in the regions i.e Africa, Middle east & asia and eastern Europe and also undermines their democratic movements.

5- Climate Change Policies withdrawal

Expected change: Trump realized previously that only America is investing in the climate change policies and agreement so he then focused on America's first policy and pull America out from Paris Agreement. As for now, may be Trump

DATE: 1/1

6- Trade policies and Protectionism

Expected change It is expected that Trump may impose more tariffs on the goods of countries which he thinks are competitive and doing trade unfairly means i.e Trump will do protectionist approach. Global implications This could strain the multilateral trade agreements with major trading partners like China, EU and Canada and results in the form of trade war. It can also cause disruptions in global chain supply.

7- Middle-East Policy

Expected change Trump may withdraw the military influence from middle-east also along with countering Israel influence and Israel's security. America don't want the Iran's influence over middle east - they could also rethinking the broker Agreements with Arab i.e. Abraham accord. Global implications U.S withdrawal lead to the power vacuum and cause regional instability with countries like Iran, Turkey and Saudi Arabia and the ties b/w Israel and Arab states could shift regional dynamics.

Conclusion:

Thus, Trump's re-entry into office would likely steer U.S. foreign policy toward unilateralism, skepticism toward multi-lateral agreements and prioritization of national interests over global cooperation - It led to the multi fragmented international orders, new trade relationships and regional security solutions.
