The Art of Political Performance

The Art of Politics

07/20

Politicians amaze with their unmatched verbosity and skillful evasion. They use cunning plots and exaggerating words as an act in grand theatre of governance.

They are masters of linguistic acrobatics. When even a simple question is asked, they skillfully evade it showcasing their intellectual capacity.

If anyone questions their motives, they make them lost in their words' puzzle. They are experts in playing promise game. Promises which are forgotten once votes are counted. Their diplomatic skills are respectable. Whether shedding reconcilian tears or displaying acts of indignation, they never fail to entertain. Their well-timed photo-ops hold more power than any pen or sword. They have unmatched talent of self-preservation. They change their ideologies seamlessly and escape scandals cleverly. Their actions are the reminder that Leadership seems to be more about perfecting performance than ① ~~Answer~~ What can be inferred about the environmental impact of renewable energy production compared to traditional fossil fuels?

Answer: It may be less harmful but it still poses the threat. As production of renewable energy sources requires extensive mining to extract metals and destruction of habitats occurs as a by-product. Also, green house gases emit during production and recycling is a also a serious task. Ans: They are not as environment friendly as they are considered to be. Such as their batteries are re-charged by electricity that is produced via fossil fuel burning. Also, once their batteries expire, it's difficult to dispose them off which also contributes to environmental pollution and toxin accumulation in environment.

(3) What challenge is associated —

Ans: When renewable energy systems reach the end of their lifespan, the question of their disposal becomes critical. Recycling these components is neither straight forward nor widely practised, often resulting in the accumulation of toxic waste in environment.
