- Q1: Answer

It can be inferred that although renewable energy seems to be the solution of environment pollution but in reality it is not much different from traditional fossil fuels. Disposal and recycling of renewable energy resources such as solar panels and wind turbines produce air pollution. Similarly, the material required to produce renewable energy like tellurium, cadmium, lithium in electric car batteries etc produce greenhouse gases which are harmful for environment and are toxic for living being. Therefore, unless the proper solutions of these materials are not introduced and adapted, renewable energy's impact on environment is not very different from non-renewable energy resources.

intensity (water and soil) which is already facing environmental stress and shortage. Furthermore, the batteries are made of lithium-ion which require mining and hence produce environmental pollution. Lastly, the disposal of batteries used EVs are toxic to environment. Therefore, EVs are not as environment friendly as they appear to be.

- Q3 Answer

The biggest challenge associated with disposal of renewable energy systems is not having a proper infrastructure needed to dispose and recycle their material. The current system and management is not efficient enough to dispose the renewable energy system after their lifespan ends and thus ends up producing toxic emission and pollution into the environment while disposing.

Work on length of Precis

Precis:- Political Leadership: Performance over Service

Q2 → Title:- ~~Politicians And Their Multiple Personalities~~

Sentence Structure tends to do anything to appear good in front of public. They do false tactics to get votes. They make false promises to people to work for their welfare. But, once elected they forget those promises. Their personality changes so quickly from one to another to appear .. generous but in reality it is the opposite. It seems like being a leader is now more about the appearance rather than serving the country. (words: 77)
