Title needs improvement.

Grammar is ok.

Politicians are the beacons of deception and manipulation. They hold significant command in rhetoric and linguistic art. They also know the art of dodging questions with sesquipedalian phrases and oratory. Besides, the promises of politicians are hoax that turn into words once they are at the helm of affairs. Further, politicians are experts in engaging their audience through acts of defiance, displaying theatrical prowess. They change their ideologies as per the political climate, depicting self preservation. Transforming their public-image is a piece of cake for them. Considering all of this, political leadership cares more about sharpening the blades of

Ans

According to the passage, renewable energy also has environmental impact when compared to traditional fossil fuels. Renewable energy production gradually impacts the environment in contrast of fossil fuels. They also leave a carbon footprint through its manufacturing and supply chain to its disposal. In the light of the passage renewable energy is not utopia as it will also hurt the environment in hindsight compared to traditional fossil fuels.

2.

Ans

Electric Vehicles (EV) are ~~not~~ not the complete solution to environmental pollution as per the passage. EVs run on batteries that are environmentally friendly, but not their manufacturing. Batteries are made up of Nickel and Cobalt whose mining degrades environment. Further, if EVs are to be charged through fossil fuel energy then it is a matter of concern. While, EVs' battery disposal also poses challenges to counter. Therefore, EVs are not all environmentally friendly.

3.

Ans

There are some challenges associated with the disposal of renewable energy system after their life-span. Disposal of solar panels and wind turbines, after 20 to 30 years of their life, remains an issue to solve. These components are not recycled usually, and because of which environmental degradation occurs. All renewables are made up of toxic materials that impact the environment after ending their life-span such as batteries of EVs. Hence, these are the rising issues or challenges with respect to the disposal of renewable energy system.

Ans

According to the article, renewable energy is not completely pollution-free during its operational phase. It is because solar and wind power needs essential backup from fossil-fuel in the form of plants or batteries. The latter has a notorious supply chain that not only hurts environment but also causes human rights violation. Owing to this, renewables are not environmentally-friendly even during their operational phase.

5.

An

The article proposes some ways to limit renewable energy. Energy ~~factor~~ efficiency must be enhanced, consumption must be halted, and energy mix should prevail. The renewables are ~~not~~ the complete solution against pollution, therefore, both renewables and non-renewables should be used side-by-side. Meanwhile, the complex problems of renewables must also be addressed. Only in this way can humans properly harness the real potential of renewables. In this way, the article proposes ways to address renewable energy.
