I Introduction

There is a global consensus on the fact that climate change is the threat to humanity. It has not only affected humans but the non living environment as well. Therefore it is a major concern for the countries around the globe.

Pakistan is one of the worst affected of the ongoing climate change. Pakistan stands at the 5th most affected country list by climate change. But climate change has affected the economy of Pakistan far worse. Some of the impacts of climate change that has affected the economic security of the country are discussed as follows:

II Impacts of Climate Change on Pakistan's Economy

(a) Loss of Infrastructure

Pakistan has witnessed some of the devastating in the last few decades. The floods of 2010 and 2022 has caused the destruction of major infrastructure sites. Many thousands of houses were immersed

Day: _____
The water, Roads, Bridges and other communication means were demolished.

(b) Loss of Crops

Crops are more vulnerable to climate change than anything else.

The recent floods and the extreme heat waves have caused the deterioration of crops which led to the economy of the country.

(c) Loss of Live Stock

Animals are prone to the changing climate and is affecting them negatively. Many live stocks were lost to the recent floods of 2010 and 2020 while the rest are the victims of heat waves.

(d) Food Insecurity

The extreme weather patterns have affected the production of food. For example last year the production of mangoes dropped significantly due to lack of rain in the season. Similarly Pakistan that once exported grains is now importing it because it cannot produce the required amount.

(e) Human Diseases and health Care Due to natural disasters like floods and the growing heat waves or the presence of poisonous smog, has caused diseases. Due to this the health care has become expensive for the government and the citizens to afford.

(b) Mass Migration within The Cities / Internally Displaced Persons (IDP)

Due to natural disasters like flood and earthquake Pakistan is facing IDP internally displaced persons. People are migrating from areas which are prone to natural disasters. For example the south of Punjab has become unlivable according to UN-HCR report. Similarly many people are migrating from coastal areas due to threat of flood and from Lahore due to bad air / smog.

Population concentration in one place can cause many problems for the government and the people over all, to provide basic necessities to all equally.

III Way Forward To Mitigate The Threat of climate change

There are ways to tackle the issue of climate change that in the long run would benefit the economy of Pakistan. These way forward are:

(a) Population Planning

The population of Pakistan is growing at the rate of 2.25% which is alarming for a developing country like Pakistan that has no sufficient resources to provide to its people. There is a dire need of proper planning of the current population explosion. women makes half of the world and in Pakistan They make 45% of the total population. Domesticating half of the population is putting the burden on the other half to provide for both. Government should promote women employment.

Climate change is affecting both women and men similarly. For example in the recent floods of 2022 women lost their source of income in the form of crop farming, livestock and other art work like stitching clothes.

(c) Establishing Disaster Risk Management DRMs

There is a dire need of a scientific system that can assess, predict and plan for minimizing the risks of future disasters and control the devastating effects of climate change. Government should equip such units with modern technologies and hire well trained staff that can work to minimize the disasters impacts.

(d) Transition to Renewable Energy Source

This is also an opportunity for
