Title:The Art of Political Performance Agility of Politicians to protect their performance

Precis:

05/20

~~Sadly~~, politicians are the epitome of honesty and integrity. One wonders at their ability to complicate issues and avoid problems. In governance, they trick subjects with mechanized performance. When they are questioned about their performance, they avoid that by using complex answers. Similarly, Politicians make promises before elections but forget about them after elections. Their other skill is to shed crocodilianchrocodile before public and to show off by looking themselves kind. It is ~~sad~~ to say that they turn sidesswiftly for their benefit. It ~~is sad~~ that prime objective of the politicians is to protect their performance rather than public population.

Overall idea is ok

Title needs improvement.
