Precis of the provided passage

Understanding Sportsmanship: The Heat of Sports

Sportsmanship includes the behavior of athletes in sports. It is a quality of being patient while respecting opponents and their opinions.

A good sportsmanship is based on four crucial components including manners, determination, fairness, and Justice, which need to be balanced. Today's sportsmanship is shaped by influential leaders who set the concept of winning and losing. In sports, a loser abandons the good sportsmanship and always finds lame excuses and blames others for his defect. However, a bad winner quits good sportsmanship qualities after his victory by being arrogant and intimidating his opponent regardless the opponent's impressive efforts. The disrespect by a bad winner exhibits demeaning effects to the opposite person.
