Q2. Make a Précis and suggest a suitable title.

Title : The ~~full~~ Art of Political Performance

06/20

Overall idea is ok

Title needs improvement.

Grammar is ok

Politicians are so well skilled at twisting talks that leaves one envious. When asked a simple question, they would answer in a way not only covering their intellectual gaps but with phrases that would leave the inquirer in haze.

Let alone their promises, which burst like a water bubble once their seats are fixed. Indeed, it is an epic talent to have. Not only this but, their performance at public shows is one of their another commendable skill they excel at, never failing to entertain the Public. Thus it would be unfair not to commend their unprecedented talent of Self-conservation, adaptability and ~~Scapegoating~~ so we can conclude that being politician is less about leadership and more about mastering the skill of Performance.

Q3 Read the following passage....

Questions:

Comprehend the answer 5-7 Lines/Sentences

Q1. Answer:

The environmental impacts of renewable energy production compared to fossil fuels, in the negative terms, are undermined under the dogma of Eco-utopia. The environment friendly narrative of the renewable energy production is oversimplified and ignores the sizeable environmental footprints comparable with the fossil fuels. ~~firstly the solar panels~~ This can be inferred from the following facts.

1. Solar panels requires extraction of rare earth elements like Cadmium and Tellurium whose extraction process damages ~~environment~~ during the mining process
2. Wind turbines also require concrete and rare earth elements, the manufacturing of which generates significant greenhouse gases. Write in Single Passage
3. The manufacturing process of electric vehicles (EV) requires lithium-ion batteries which requires extensive mining of material like lithium, cobalt and nickel, destroying natural habitats, soil contamination and high water usage, creating environmental stress. Additionally if the EVs are charged by electricity generated by fossil fuels, their environmental benefit diminishes.

Q2

Answer:

The electric vehicles are environmental friendly in terms of their shift from use of fossile fuels to power engines, as they provide an alternate to lesser use of fossil fuel for our energy needs. Electric vehicles could be charged with renewable energy sources like solar energy panels. The use of renewable energy is also most efficient, reducing the dependence ^{on} expensive fossil fuels. The use of electric vehicles also provides a sustainable alternate that could be utilized for a longer period of time, decreasing the environmental footprint of traditional vehicles.

Q3.

Answer:

The disposal of renewable energy system after their life span ends is critical. Recycling of these components is neither straightforward nor widely practiced, which often results in accumulation of toxic waste. There is no well defined method to either discard or recycle the renewable energy components. Thus without a robust infrastructure, this influx of discarded material challenges the benefits of green energy.

Q4 Answer:

The article suggest that renewable energy is not entirely pollution-free during its operational phase because the intermittent nature of solar and wind power necessitates backup from fossil fuel plants or reliance on battery storage, the latter of which poses an environmental challenge itself because the elements utilized in batteries such as lithium and cobalt causes environmental degradation and notorious for human rights abuses.

Q5

Answer:

The article suggest a balanced perspective to address the challenges.

It suggests that we should avoid blindly heralding renewables as a panacea risks complacency and overlooks the importance of improving energy efficiency, reducing consumption and diversifying the energy mix.
