

29-7-2025

English Essay

5. The importance of Civic Sense in a Developing Society.

OUTLINE:

1. Thesis statements

The importance of civic sense in developing society is paramount, as it maintains political stability, thriving economy, and efficient governance. Without civic sense society falls into Hobbesian state of lawlessness, fragmentation of social fabric, and undermining national development. So, due to civic sense society can be transitioned from a status of developing into developed society.

2. Phenomenon of Civic Sense: Resolving the Paradox

3. Importance of Civic Sense in Developing Society

- political stability: How civic sense maintains political stability?
- Thriving economy: menace of tax evasion
- Efficient governance system: on the way to progress and prosperity
- Law and order situation: normalcy in daily life affairs
- Tolerant society: Respecting difference of opinion
- Maintaining law-abiding behaviour: not need of coercion
- Follow the rules and regulations: Sign of successful societies

4. Lack of Civic Sense and Society

- Hobbesian state of lawlessness: chaos and disruption in society
- undermining national development

5- Case Study

How Japan adopt Civic Sense and lessons for developing societies especially for Palestine?

6- Conclusion

In 21st Century, where chaos and disruption across the world is rampant; disruption of international global order, violation of nations integrity and sovereignty. It seems like world is plunge into lawlessness and revival of world wars occurred in past history. In state of chaos and disruption, embracing civic sense is extremely necessary for developing countries. As it plays unprecedented role to shape the destiny of nations. Moreover, it plays pivotal role to maintain political stability as consistent policies shaping the destiny of nations. Furthermore, tax evasion is consistent issue faced by nations as it halted resilience in economy and resultantly society turn into moribund economy. In addition to, efficient governance system is dire need of how as it maintain normalcy in daily life affairs and society back in on the way of progress and prosperity. Nevertheless, it plays effective role in maintaining law and order situation in the society. Likewise, the society can become tolerant by embracing civic sense. Moreover, civic sense contributes to law-abiding behaviour of citizen and does not <sup>need of</sup> force and coercion to regulate the behaviour. Furthermore, if the society has the civic sense then it follows rules and regulations, which is the item of the successful societies. However, due to lack of civic sense it spurred serious concerns to the society like society fall into Hobbesian state of lawlessness and ultimately undermining national development. Thus, civic sense is very important for the society as it plays unprecedented role to maintain normalcy in daily life affairs and efficient governance.

governance system. Thus, society turns into developed society.

The term civic sense means respecting each other's rights, maintaining law-abiding behaviour, follow the rules and regulations; one does not need force and coercion to regulate the behaviour. For example in developed societies, where civic sense among masses is high like in Singapore, government does not place high restrictions and sanctions to regulate the behaviour of the public. Because the public was civic sense and educated. By this way, today Singapore passport is ranked one among the nations of the world: Passport Index 2024 Report. These figures show how Singapore adopt resilient policies and work on human development as it portrays her development in the world. Resultantly, it moved in cultivating civic sense which turns to successful country of the world. Thus civic sense plays exorbitant role to shape the destiny of nations.

Civic Sense plays effective role to making of resilient economy. As discussed prior paragraph, civic sense means citizens do not require coercion and extreme regulations to regulate the behaviour.

In this scenario, citizens himself themselves following the tax policies like payment of taxes in time as nations are thrown into resilience. For example in Pakistan, there is low civic-sense which spawned various concerns like weak governance system, political instability and low tax net; where elites are deliberately avoid to pay taxes and by this way today society fall into moribund economy and soaring inflation. So if the society has civic sense than it has high quality of life and paying taxes is time, by this way moribund economy turns into resilient economy. Thus, it has huge importance in developing societies otherwise it perpetuates vicious cycle of despair. If society has civic sense then it highly contribute to good governance system.

Civic sense plays pivotal role in realm of governance system. As Governance Index Report 2015, Scandinavian countries have placed top most rank among other nations of the world. These societies are consistently strong for investing in human development which turns into reflecting civic sense among masses and ultimately on the way to progress and prosperity in the society. There are innumerable causes like high importance of education, employment opportunities and skill-based activities for youth and epicenter of global talent; remarkably all these factors contributes to crafting good governance system. for example Sweden and Switzerland are the places known for development, high life expectancy-ratio, robust institutions and especially peace in these societies. One of the reasons is high civic sense; respecting rights, law abiding behavior which is known to develop the society and governance system. Thus civic sense plays effective role in realm of governance. Ultimately it turns to lead and maintain law and order situation in the society.

Unlike its role in governance realm, it plays huge role in maintaining law and order situation in the society. Usually, state has institutions which maintains law and order situation in the society. It involves polices which use of force and regulations in society to regulate the behavior of citizens. It's mobility is high in those societies which have high crime ratio and which are not law-abiding; all this is because of low civic sense. For example, in Nigeria, Sudan and Mali, there is high crime ratio, lawlessness, negligible investment in education and health which turns into state of despair. In those areas, low civic sense, police mobility is high as it requires excessive force to regulate and maintain law and order situation. But if there is civic sense then it does not require high checks, force and coercion. Thus civic sense plays an effective role to maintain law and order situation. Not only law and order situation but also contributes to become tolerant society.

Similarly, civic sense is contributing to becoming a tolerant society; As it involves in respecting difference of opinions, freedom of expression and speech and acknowledge the rights of marginalized communities. For example in Europe where all rights of communities are well protected; one can easily exercise one's religion<sup>and</sup> belief. Comparatively, in Afghanistan prohibition Taliban government used crippling measures against the citizens of the country where worst ratio of civic sense as recently published by Global Freedom of Speech Report 2024. It shows staggering figures of worst civic sense, low education and banning of females getting education, spurred serious concerns for the society. So if the society has civic sense by just investing in awareness programs, education and human development then it leads the nation. Thus civic sense is a source of becoming a tolerant society which is pre-requisite for national development.

Civic Sense not only contributing to <sup>become</sup> tolerant society but also effectively plays role in maintaining law-abiding behaviour. It is the civic sense who plays effective role to law-abiding behaviour and follow the rules and regulations provided by state. In developed societies where high human development index, follow the rules and regulations of the state, maintaining law-abiding behaviour engendered positive outcomes for the whole society. like high employment, low crime rate, friendly environment, resilient economy and communities pushed each other to gain their goals and objectives. In contrary, those societies which have low civic sense spurred serious concerns and explosive ramifications for the entire society. like undermine development, soaring inflation, high crime rates. Thus civic sense plays paramount ~~role~~ critical role to maintaining law-abiding behaviour in the society.

However, due to lack of civic sense, it spurred serious impacts on society like society fall into Hobbesian state of 'anarchy'. As discussed earlier paragraphs, it has explosive ramifications for the society, like declining of national goals, high crime rates, low employment opportunities and soaring inflation. for example in Iraq, Libya and Afghanistan, scenes of terrorism in past history but today low civic sense dominate the whole spheres of society. In Afghanistan where women are debared from getting education, single dress and ultimately prevail of suppression and repression in the society. likewise in other countries state of lawlessness is prevailed due to low investment in human human development index and low skill-full activities which turns society into chaos and disruption. Thus civic sense plays critical role among marginalized minorities and maintaining order in the society. It not only endows rules and regulations in the society but also neglected national development, a dilemma of south global countries. For example In Niger, a label of terrorism and known for huge unrest in the society due to govt is not investing in civic sense and ultimately prevailed in the society life undermining national development which mean low civic sense, low education, high communicable diseases due to lack of investment in health sectors, negligible opportunities for employment, low engagement of citizens and all these factors affecting detailed national development of the society. Thus low civic sense has directly proportional to undermining the national development. But there are countries who embraced this concept and today known for some of rapid development in technology and human fields of life. Japan, is the country which known for its high investment in human development i.e. high civic sense, high literacy rate, low crime rates, high employment opportunities, sophisticated cutting-edge technologies. In 2019, FIFA world cup at Japan, where residents of Japan were cleared the whole football stadium been left by crowd. It is proved high civic sense. It has innumerable lesson for Pakistan where it can turn its society into tolerant, effective and role-model for other countries too.

Thus, the importance of civic sense in developing countries is paramount as it maintains political stability by placing consistent policies which lead to progress and prosperity of the society. Like it effectively contributes to resilient economy which is a dire need of the hour for the effective nation. It also enhances law and order situation which is quite pathetic in ~~lawless~~ countries where law civic sense is prevailed. It has critical role to making tolerant society and also pivotal role in maintaining law-abiding behaviour for the citizens of the country. However, due to lack of civic sense it spurred serious concerns like Hobbesian state of lawlessness and hindering national development of the society. There are countries in the world who adopt civic sense and get rid of social evils of the society and turn into progress and prosperity of the society.