

Q.2

Moral Decay and Modern Civilization

Modern civilization valuesWealth over character: the gravest reversal

05/20

Under the visible progress, civilization suffers from unseen corrosion. The modern civilization is obsessed with technology and possession. Amid marvels of engineering and capitalism, it merely notices the gravest reversal that the progress has accompanied with itself: wealth and profit over character and virtue. In modern times, materialism is valued over the dignity of home; profit is motivation rather than fairness; wealth dictates war front, the conventional war in sky and land would have escalated, causing huge human loss.

(iv) Traditional military force with air-defence systems costed dire Rabale jets; missiles and artillery fire hit military installations and caused blackout in capital city.

On the other hand, the digital warfare, disrupted communications, blinded satellites, disfunctioned radars and command system.

The cost incurred by the enemy was majorly inflicted by traditional military force; however, the decisive factor was Pakistan's digital warfront.

It destabilized underlying control systems without which even traditional military force can not function.

(v) If the events of 10 May 2025 were to be viewed as a turning point, the episode has changed the meaning of 'power' in the 21st century. Power once seen as conventional military force has changed into technological and digital prowess. The traditional concept of power and military numbers have changed into technological advancement and cyber expertise.

Margret, an old woman, visits the Embankment railway station of London daily, just to listen the announcement, "Mind the gap", in the voice of her late husband, Oswald Lawrence. This announcement was recorded in 1970s, and after the death of Oswald, Margret used to feel his affection while listening it. In 2012, when his voice was replaced by an electronic recording, Margret contacted with the Transport for London. When the institution came to know about the emotions involved, it allowed her husband's voice to continue at Embankment station. Now, everyday on that station, the announcement, filled with love, is made.

Now, every day, the platform echoes once again with that beloved, love-filled voice.
