→ Q.3. Comprehension

Q.1.

→ Why did Arab leaders change their attitude towards Pakistan after the conflict?

Arab leaders change their attitude towards Pakistan after the conflict. This is because, they were deeply impressed by the Pakistan mastery of digital warfare and its disciplined conduct. Moreover, in the conflict Pakistan gave more focus on digital warfare rather than conventional battle. In such a way, the digital warfare paralyzed the Indian's communication system, and gave victory to Pakistan.

Q: 3

→ If Pakistan had not launched digital warfare after the missile retaliation, how would the conflict have turned out differently? →

→ If Pakistan had not launched digital warfare after the missile retaliation, then it ~~for~~ might be faced great loss. This is because, Pakistan had been involved in cyber and digital warfare to paralyzed the enemy. Moreover, Pakistan hacked the important information and its cyber units disabled the enemy command system. Furthermore, the cyber units blinded satellite networks, silenced air defence radars, and disrupted encrypted communications. Hence, Pakistan had launched digital warfare, which gave a great victory in a short period of time.
