to curb the illness of poverty
e) More focus should be on research and development so that technological dependence ends

Once a man came to Prophet Muhammad (SAW) and ask for some financial help. The prophet Muhammad (SAW) replied him in unique way which resulted in the poor man having an axe in his possession. The Prophet (SAW) told the man to go and earn his livelihood by cutting firewood with axe and selling it. Instead of solving problem temporarily, it should be permanently solved but for Pakistan the situation contributes to the burden of foreign debt and inflation. For example lack of institutional reforms, unstable political scenario and civil-military transition. Moreover minimal efforts to install local industries, rapid migrational influx and lack of technological advancements are the main causes contributing to increased foreign debt. The increased dependence on foreign aid resulted hard policies decisions making, losing true spirit of democracy, that further pushed us to economic crisis like circular debt, decreasing foreign reserves which further increase inflation. Moreover, we go on importing warfares but unable to get that technological advancements. The burden of foreign debt can be copped up by prioritizing those institutional reforms that are in country's favour. Also political stability be ensured for peace, and we should shift from import based to export based economy which will increase job opportunities, alleviating poverty. There should be more focus on research and development so that technological dependence ends. So, a correlation is found between burden of foreign debt and how it had become cage for developing economies like Pakistan. Foreign debt although provides breathing space to debilitating economies but it is not the solution. However, by making and implementing strategies countries can get redemption from cage of foreign aid.

According to International Monetary Fund, foreign debt is the liabilities owed by a resident to non-resident, with residence being determined by creditors and debtors. Pakistan has a long history of loan taking from IMF since 1958 and till present day over economy is based on foreign grants, bail packages, extended
