English Precis Test - 2

Title :-

Purpose over pay

A well educated or principled person cannot prioritize money as life's chief aim, just as one cannot prioritize dinner. While earning money is natural, it must remain secondary. A true soldier focuses on winning battles, not payment; a clergyman values spiritual duties over fees; and a good doctor prioritizes healing patients above compensation. Indeed, an ethical doctor would rather cure without payment than harm for profit. For all honorable professionals, their work is primary; remuneration, ~~though~~ though necessary, remains secondary.
