Title : Money is not the answer

It is quite impossible that for a civilized person-money is the ultimate goal. Same as he likes to have dinner but it's not his primary objective. All such people appreciate the process more than the outcome. A soldier's main purpose is to win battles, clergy love preaching faith and a good doctor cures his patients. No doubt, they all love to be paid but if they are intellectual and brave their main ambition can never be material. Similarly, all capable men prioritize their work over money.
