

Women Empowerment

"Women don't need to find a voice, they have a voice, and they need to feel empowered to use it, and people need to be encouraged to listen"

(Meghan Markle)

Women empowerment refers to female power in social, economic, political and spiritual affairs. In past few years, society was dominated by men. Women were suppressed by men. They had no rights, no freedom and no independence. They had no freedom to get education and not to vote even. They were just supposed to stay at home and prepare meals for husband and taking care of children. But now in modern age, women is no more the name of frailty. They are performing their services in every field of life. They are working in medical, army, navy, air force and engineering fields. They are equal to men by rights. They are getting education, have the right to vote and enjoying their other rights.

For prosperity and progress, Government should promote the proper education system for females. Because an educated mother will raise her children with good moral values which will be helpful in producing good citizens. For example Malala Yousafzai, won a noble peace prize for promoting women education, despite of facing threats. Women should also have political independence. As in Pakistan, the chief Minister of Punjab is a Lady. Woman should be no more a machine to produce offsprings. Modern technology is working on birth process artificially. There would be a machine which will produce offsprings. As they will be free from labor pain and able to focus on work. Due to this state they are not capable of performing some jobs. There are certain NGOs which are working for the rights of women.

By empowering women society will be prosperous.

Total word count:
270.