

- what
- why: → social benefits (At home raise children, economic growth, stable societies.
- How: → At ^{socially} home, dignity and respect.
 - Education and ~~religious~~ economic independence
 - political participation
 - legally, their ~~right~~ due right and awareness.

Women Empowerment

- S: hurdles: culture and traditions
- E: → economic dependency
→ lack of education
- P: → under-representation

W.E in Pakistan

- world economic forum.

Global gender gap index

- Pak 145 / 146

DATE: _____

DATE: _____

Women Empowerment

Women empowerment means improving women's ability to make important life choices that were previously denied. It includes ~~women~~ accepting women's viewpoints and raising their status socially, politically, economically and legally. Women empowerment is very necessary. In fact, it would not be wrong to say that women empowerment serves as the right hand of a prosperous society. Without it, a society cannot be prosperous. It is necessary because it has many benefits. Socially, women can play a better role when they are given a sense of self-worth. It will allow women to make informed choices about life. It will lead to more stable and prosperous societies. In a similar way, women empowerment is very important for the economic growth of the state. It increases economic diversification and income equality. This way the problem of poverty can be reduced. Women empowerment can be achieved in many ways. To begin with, at home, women should be granted more liberty and respect. Their opinions, choices, and decisions must be respected.

It ^{is} ~~can~~ also necessary to provide women equal educational and economic opportunities as men.

Another requirement for women empowerment is equal political ~~part~~ participation such as right to vote ~~and~~, contesting elections, and increasing women's representation in the parliament. Similarly, protecting women and their rights legally and raising awareness about their legal right can also contribute to women empowerment. Furthermore, there are many hurdles in the way of women empowerment such as cultural and traditional restraints, economic dependency of women, lack of education and under-representation. To conclude, women empowerment is very necessary for a society and important steps should be taken to achieve it despite all the hurdles.

DATE: _____

DATE: _____