

(1)

The author lamented about deviance of art from our lives. Art has been neglected and misunderstood by the people. Just like actions without morality is ugly, similarly, life without beauty is meaningless. People view beauty as extra decoration, not something important.

(2) There is no significant difference between an artist and an ordinary man because all are given same opportunities. People often misconcept him by linking artistic ~~with~~ quality with peculiar gift. Although everyone has the same ability, some continuously practice and embrace art while others not.

3) We can make our lives beautiful and charming by recognizing the aesthetic quality of the art and by learning to love beauty and making the things we use or create more meaningful and beautiful.

(4) "Beauty is not an ornament to life", the writer means that beauty is not something extra or optional. It is a basic and necessary part of life, just like goodness / morality in actions. Beauty should be part of everything we create or use, not just added for show.

(5) Yes, art and beauty do affect our practical life and morals. They fulfill our inner needs and bring peace, joy and meaning to our lives. Just like truth and honesty guide our actions, beauty shapes how we live and what we value.