Paragraph #02

"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever"

The line "A thing of beauty is a joy forever" was written by the poet John Keats. It means that beautiful things give us happiness that lasts a long time. Beauty can be found in many places like in nature, in music, in art, or even in good memories. When we see or remember something beautiful, it makes us feel better even when we are sad or worried. For example, watching a sunset, listening a lovely music, or looking at flowers can bring peace to our hearts. These small moments of beauty stay with us, and we think of them again when we need comfort.

Life is full of hardships and struggles. But beauty reminds us that there is still good in the world. It helps us feel calm and hopeful. Keats believe that beauty never really dies. Even when the moment is gone, its memory stays with us and brings us joy. Beauty doesn't have to be something big or expensive, it can be something simple and natural.

It touches our heart and makes us feel alive again.

we often forget to notice these small beautiful things, but they are essential part of our lives. They make life worth living. It is not something we see with our eyes, it is something we feel inside. It brings light in our dark days and helps us believe in better times. This is why Keats says, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."
